PINKERTON DETECTIVE SAYS HE KNOWS WHO SHOT GOEBEL AND MAY TELL GOV. WILLSON

GUS ASH WILL REVEAL HOW SHERIFF JIM SUTTON, WHO COMMITTED SUICIDE BY JUMPING FROM BRIDGE, FIRED FATAL SHOT AT FRANKFORT, AND CLEAR CALEB POWERS' NAME.

Charleston, W. Va., Nov. 20.—Gus Ash, from Bell Creek, in the New River mining district, who claims to be a Pinkerton detective, and who is now in Charleston attending Federal court, claims to have evidence at his command sufficient to vindicate all the men now held for the murder of Governor William Goebel, of Kentucky. He declares that he can secure affidavits from three men, eye witnesses to the shooting, stating that Sheriff Jim Sutton, who afterward ended his life by jumping from a bridge, fired the fatal shot.

Ash has written a letter to Governor-elect Augustus E. Willson, of Kentucky, telling him of the information which he claims to have secured, and until he receives an answer to his letter refuses to divulge the names of the witnesses. Ash is a native of Kentucky and was in that state at the time of the shooting of Goebel.

The witnesses, he says, are all Kentuckians, and were among the mountaineers then in Frankfort. Ash is uneducated and appears to believe that the newspaper men who try to get him to tell the names of his informants are endeavoring to get the rewards offered for Goebel's murderers. He claims to be ignorant of the county of which Sutton was sheriff.

TELEPHONE FIRE PUTS 150 PHONES OUT OF BUSINESS

Patent Fire Extinguisher and Coolness Saves Home Exchange From Serious Damage This Morning—Loss Will be About $200.

FIRE IN BUGGY WAREHOUSE

Telephones in 150 homes were put out of commission this morning at 11:30 o'clock by a fire in the office of the Home Telephone company on South Fifth street, caused by a short circuit in one of the multiples. Greater damage was prevented by the efficient action of a patent fire extinguisher in the hands of Mr. Whitmore, the "trouble man."

Just how the fire originated is not known, but some outside trouble is supposed to have caused a short circuit inside among the myriad of wires in the back of the operators' table. In the flash of an eye the 150 phones were burned out and the damage of $200 might have run into thousands had not the chief operator seen a small curl of smoke arising from the rear of the operators' desk. There was no water near and before it could have been procured, the fire would have swept along the charged wires at incredible speed. Several handfuls of fire extinguisher thrown on the blaze put it out.

In the light of the damage done an experiment with the fire extinguisher made only yesterday, was unusually fortunate. The "trouble man" yesterday experimented with the fire extinguishing powder by sprinkling it on a burning rag, but it was not effective. He learned later that the powder must be thrown violently and in handfuls on the fire to be effective. If he had not made this experiment yesterday it is probable that the fire today would not have been checked so quickly.

The girls at the operators' desk were not in danger on account of the prompt action of the "trouble man." It will be tomorrow night or the next day before all the telephones damaged are in service.

Fire in Warehouse.

What came near being a disastrous fire was extinguished by the timely arrival of the No. 2 hose and chemical wagons and the No. 4 truck this morning at the Rehkopf Buggy company's warehouse, Eleventh street and Broadway, at 3 o'clock.

The fire originated in the rear of the building and was making considerable headway when the firemen arrived. One buggy, which was standing near where the fire started, was destroyed, while several others were slightly damaged.

How the fire originated is a mystery, as there had been no fire about the building for several days. The fire was discovered and alarm given by a boy, who stays in a restaurant nearby.

The Rehkopfs have been the victim of many fires during their long business careers in the city, their collar factory and harness shops being destroyed and badly damaged. The immense collar factory burning at one time without a dollar's worth of insurance on the building and contents.

The warehouse, where the fire occurred this morning, contains many fine buggies and other articles carried in stock by the Buggy company, valued at many thousand dollars.

REV. HAWLEY SUED BY W. W. MEADOWS IN STATE COURT

Another chapter was added to the Hawley-Meadows affair this afternoon when Attorney Ed Thomas and H. T. Smith, who also appeared in the trial of the suit instituted by Meadows in the federal court, filed a suit in the McCracken county circuit court for W. W. Meadows against the Rev. F. M. Hawley for $50,000, on the grounds that Hawley alienated the affections of Meadows' wife. The petition recites that Meadows was married to his wife in 1891 and that they lived together in peace and happiness until Hawley entered the home and "unlawfully, wickedly and designedly began to and did give his attentions to said wife and did woo and make love to her."

The petition charges that Hawley persuaded Mrs. Meadows to leave her home and enter a suit for divorce and alimony.

The edifice is St. Mary's at La Center in charge of the Rev. A. O. Sullivan, and Father Knue, of Glasgow, will preach the dedicatory sermon. There are no Catholics in La Center, the congregation being farmers, but the La Center company donated a lot and $100 toward the buildings, and townspeople contributed liberally toward the work. A neat frame edifice is the result, and already the news has attracted the attention of German Catholic farmers in southern Indiana many of whom talk of emigrating to Ballard county, where land is comparatively cheap, and now they may have a house of worship of their faith.

While Much of the Anticipated Sensational Testimony Did Not Materialize, That Much Was Clearly Indicated in the Trial.

Some of the Second Handed Gossip Was Excluded by Judge Evans in Hawley-Meadows Suit—Case Goes to Jury Today.

The famous Hawley-Meadows $100,000 damage suit will go to the jury in federal court this afternoon about 4 o'clock, the evidence in the case being finished this morning. The lawyers began speaking at 11 o'clock. The arguments were limited to two hours a side. Speeches were made by Olie James and Hon. Charles K. Wheeler for the defense, and Judge Joseph Robbins and M. T. Shelbourne for the plaintiff, James leading in the argument in a 55-minute talk.

At the conclusion of the arguments the court will instruct the jury as to the law in the case and the jury will then have the matter for consideration. The case has been hard fought and every point closely contested. The trial began Tuesday about 10 o'clock, about fifteen hours being consumed in hearing the evidence and arguments.

Those who attended the trial of the suit of the Rev. F. M. Hawley against W. W. Meadows and other Fulton citizens yesterday, expecting to hear a sensational story of the criminal intimacy of the beautiful young wife of an aged man with a young minister of the gospel who had been taken into the home of the husband, were disappointed and aside from the dramatic story told by the Rev. Mr. Hawley of the flogging he received at the hands of the jealous husband and his friends, which was partially corroborated by bystanders and the defendants themselves, there was nothing of the sensational in the case.

From the evidence introduced it was shown that 18 months before the whipping took place Dr. Hawley went to Fulton from his home in Charlotte, N. C., and accepted the pastorate of the Fulton Presbyterian church, which had only a small congregation, and in order to obtain a living he also served the congregations of several little towns in the county. Dr. Hawley began rooming at the Meadows hotel and there was no evidence to show that any unbecoming conduct was suspected until about three months before the sensational beating was administered. Soon after Dr. Hawley began his pastorate at Fulton, Mrs. Meadows joined the Presbyterian church and became actively engaged with the pastor in church work, organizing sewing societies and other social affairs among members of the congregation. She accompanied the pastor to these meetings many times, taking him to and from the places of meeting in the Meadows carriage. Witnesses testified that Mrs. Meadows and the minister often met and conversed in the assembly hall of the Meadows hotel and were seen on the streets of Fulton at late hours of the night on as many as two occasions, but from the evidence none of the walks or drives were of a clandestine character, but always in public places.

Overworked Women

The Suffering and Pain Endured By Many Working Women is Almost Beyond Belief.

THERE are thousands of American women whose duties call them out in all winds and weathers, many of whom sit with wet feet or stand all day, thus weakening and undermining their health. Women, however, for the most part, spend their lives at home, and these women are willing and ambitious that their homes shall be kept neat and pretty, their children well-dressed and tidy, and do their own cooking, sweeping and dusting, and often washing, ironing and sewing for the entire family. Both of these classes call for our sympathy.

Truly the work of such a woman is "never done," and is it any wonder that she breaks down at the end of a few years, the back begins to ache, there is a displacement, inflammation or ulceration of certain organs, and the struggle to continue her duties are pitiful.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Made from native roots and herbs, is the exact medicine a woman needs whose strength is overtaxed. It keeps the feminine system in a strong and healthy condition.

Mrs. Sadie Abbott, of Jeannette, Pa., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— "I suffered severely with pain every month, and also a pain in my left side. My doctor prescribed for me but did me no good; a friend advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I wrote you in regard to my condition. I followed your advice and am a perfectly well woman. The pains have all disappeared, and I cannot recommend your medicine too highly."

Mrs. Lena Nagel, of 117 Morgan St., Buffalo, N.Y., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— "I was completely worn out and on the verge of nervous prostration. My back ached all the time. I had dreadful periods of pain, was subject to fits of crying and extreme nervousness, and was always weak and tired. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound completely cured me."

Mrs. Pinkham's Invitation to Women.

Women suffering from any form of feminine illness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Out of her vast volume of experience, Mrs. Pinkham probably has the very knowledge that will help your case. Her advice is free and always helpful.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND, made from Native Roots and Herbs, complies with all conditions of the new Pure Food and Drugs Law.

THE QUESTION OF THE HOUR.

(A Doggerel.)

"Oh, let me dear," he softly pleaded,
"My love thee relate."
She sneered at him, and coldly said:
"You don't know how to skate."

"I vow by all the saints that pray
At heaven's golden gate
That I will love you every day."
She smiled—"You do not skate."

"Yes, Huyler's for you I will buy, Strawberries by the crate."
She stared him squarely in the eye,
"You don't, you cannot skate."

"Ah, me," he wailed, "I must be derided.
By all the jealous fates,
To lose out till I have learned To skate on roller skates."
—Rags.

THEATRICAL NOTES

Popular Attraction.

No popular price company is better known than the Depew-Burdette combination, appearing at The Kentucky this week, and as usual the company is enjoying liberal patronage. High-class plays and good vaudeville acts comprise the nightly bill, the plays and acts being changed each performance.

"Fascinating Flora."

Chicago, Nov. 20.—"Fascinating Flora" was produced at the Garrick last night. "Fascinating Flora" strikes about the average in present day musical comedy. Its story is of the innocuous, inconsequential type, and its humor generally is so forced that the effort required of the man who wants to laugh is about equal to that of the man who made the joke. The music is Kerkiraesque, which means the ensemble numbers are of the rapid firing, explosive order, and the songs are catchy and tuneful, but in no way extraordinarily graceful or pleasing. In other respects it has been staged with all the Shubert lavishness and love of display in the matter of costume and millinery. Credit also is due Mr. Burnside for the ingenious display in the arrangement of the "business" which accompanies the songs, particularly in "The Subway Express," sung by Miss Ritchie and Mr. Schiller, in the "Nice Little Girls and Boys," given by Miss Royton and chorus, and in the dancing specialty by the messenger boys.

It is graced further by the presence of Miss Ritchie, who makes an attractive Flora. She vocalizes agreeably and quite forgets that she is a prima-donna and a star in the abandon with which she sings "I'd Rather Twostep Than Waltz, Bill." Miss Lewis, the Hoosier prima donna, who does duets with a Cusano phonograph record, is honestly and legitimately amusing, except where her lines verge on vulgarity. The part is that of the slangy, natty type, which Miss Lewis so well knows how to play, and she realizes all its comic possibilities.

Miss Sadie Jansell created something of a furore when she introduced a number of apt imitations in the second act, including the much hackneyed one of Eddie Foy, in the "Camel" song, which long ago deserved a rest. The other members of the cast, including James E. Sullivan, as an Irish German, Frank Rushworth, as the lovesick tenor, Sam Edwards as the round impresario, and Helen Royton as the chic flit, acquit themselves acceptably.

LABOR READY TO FIGHT THE SUIT BY VAN CLEAVE.

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 20.—The American Federation of Labor today decided to levy a 1 per cent per capita tax on all affiliated organizations, the fund to be used in fighting the Van Cleave anti-boycott suit and as a defense fund in general against the Manufacturers' association. The whole matter of defense was left to President Samuel Gompers and the executive council.

The federation declared against all immigration from Asia or the Pacific islands to the United States or any of its possessions.

Resolutions were adopted condemning the use of the terms "open shop" and "closed shop;" calling for an eight-hour day for all workers on the isthmus, and favoring the organization of women.

Congress is called upon for legislation to prevent the "evils of injunction rule," and all candidates for office are to be opposed who will not pledge themselves against injunction rule.

It was determined that affiliated organizations in Canada must pay the one-half cent per capita on its membership to the American federation.

KILL JOHN D.

PLOT OF JOKER OR AN INSANE MAN DISCLOSED.

Incoherent Letter Picked Up in Post-office of Omaha—What It Says.

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 20.—A letter was picked up yesterday in the post-office lobby in this city disclosing a so-called plot to assassinate John D. Rockefeller and the "other three." It is declared the work of an insane man or a practical joker. The postal authorities, who are investigating, have learned that the letter was written by a man who stood at the writing counter. When the watchman approached the writer departed in haste. The letter in incoherent style reads:

"Dear Plan: The plan made is good and should get him easy. The people all over the country will feel so good when he is removed that the law will not care to get the man who did the job. The common people are now in the chair and these thieves and robbers called the bankers must go. Papers here this morning tell that he has more money in a vault than the interest on the government debt.

"The other three you must get soon after this one goes. I will get to see our man here tonight and will get off for Chicago tomorrow. You have the full number together there so we can plan it all out. Will be there by Saturday.

"Be sure about the money we are to get, for this is a big job and will startle the whole world. I am almost afraid to trust this in the mail. But you can read between the lines. Wire me at the number Chicago, and be careful what you say. Everything is now in shape to act. Be firm."

YOUTH ESCAPES KIDNAPERS.

Son of New Jersey Banker Was Carried Into Mountains.

Hackettstown, N. J., Nov. 20.—Under threat of being shot to death if he made an outcry, Harry Welsh, a son of Mothias L. Welsh, a banker of this town, was captured by kidnapers Saturday night and carried two miles into the mountains. There he broke away from his captors and, knowing the rough wooded country better than they, succeeded in making his way back home.

This came as a climax to repeated threats of kidnaping which have been made by anonymous writers to three of the wealthiest residents of this neighborhood.

Court of Appeals Declares Re-Count Law Unconstitutional—Was Unanimous.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 20.—William Randolph Hearst cannot attack the validity of George B. McClellan's election in November, 1905, to the office of mayor of New York, under the provisions of the so-called recount bill passed by the legislature last winter. The court of appeals unanimously declared the act unconstitutional; but in its opinion it points out that Hearst still has sufficient remedy in quo warranto suits now pending.

without suffering most terrible distress. The doctor said I was in a critical condition and going down hill. I could not work and kept getting worse all the time. At last, I took Cardui and in two days time I was a different woman. Now I eat good, work good and feel better than I ever did before, in all my life."

IT'S YOUR KIDNEYS.

Don't Mistake the Cause of Your Troubles—A Paducah Citizen Shows How to Cure Them.

Many people never suspect their kidneys. If suffering from a lame, weak or aching back they think that it is only a muscular weakness; when urinary trouble sets in they think it will soon correct itself. And so it is with all the other symptoms of kidney disorders. That is just where the danger lies. You must cure these troubles or they may lead to diabetes or Bright's disease. The best remedy to use is Doan's Kidney Pills. It cures all ills which are caused by weak or diseased kidneys. Paducah people testify to permanent cures.

L. L. Davies, 219 Broadway, Paducah, Ky., says: "I have been greatly benefited by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills, which I procured at DuBois, Son & Co.'s drug store. I had suffered with backache for some time, but a short use of this remedy proved very satisfactory in relieving the trouble. I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills very highly to those afflicted in this way."

B. G. WALLACE FALLS HEIR TO FINE ESTATE.

Mr. B. G. Wallace, formerly a groceryman of the west end, but now residing on his farm near the city, recently received the good news that he had fallen heir to a large tract of land located in the gold mining district of North Carolina near Greensboro, the birth place of his parents, which they abandoned at the close of the civil war, thinking it worthless. Recently it was discovered that it abounded in rich ore, also covered with fine mountain pine trees making it doubly valuable. Mr. Wallace will leave for North Carolina about January 1 to look after his new estate.

560 SALOONS ARE CLOSED IN NEW OKLAHOMA STATE.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Nov. 20.—When 12 o'clock came on Saturday night approximately 560 saloons in Oklahoma closed as the result of the state wide prohibition provision in the state constitution.

The greatest number of saloons in one town was sixty-five at Oklahoma City, where the fixtures of each saloon had an average of about $1,500. The only breweries in the state, two in number, were in Oklahoma City.

An idea of the traffic out of may be gained from the statement of an experienced saloonkeeper. He said the gross income of each saloon in Oklahoma would average $49 a day, making a total of $3,696,000 paid annually for alcoholic beverages by the people of one-half the new state. WILLING TONGUES OF FULTON

Husband Grows Jealous.
According to the testimony of Mr. Meadows, he began to think that the minister was paying too much attention to Mrs. Meadows, and finally upon his return from a trip to Hot Springs, he noticed a change in Mrs. Meadows' manner toward him. This preyed on his mind and after he had been told by many of his friends of the walks, drives and meetings in the hotel corridor of the two, he went to Mr. Hawley and told him he must vacate his room and seek other lodgings. He testified that Hawley did not ask him any reason for his action in ordering him from the house, but remained in the house several days until he obtained other apartments. The talk and gossip in regard to the actions of the two, coupled with the rejection of the minister from the Meadows home, soon spread over the town and Hawley announced to his congregation that he would go away on a visit to his home for a few weeks and would look over new fields, promising that within two weeks he would give his congregation notice as to whether he would return. While he was away Mrs. Meadows left her husband and filed a suit for divorce and in his defense Meadows began to accuse the minister of having alienated the affections of his wife.

Dr. Hawley was importuned by friends to return to Fulton and defend himself against the charges, which he consented to do, and the announcement of his coming was made in a Fulton daily paper.

It Enraged Meadows.

"The fact that the man who had wrecked my home was returning to the city so enraged me that I made up my mind that I would kill him on sight," said Mr. Meadows in testifying. "I called H. T. Smith by telephone and he came to my house and I told him of my intention to kill Hawley. Smith prevailed upon me not to kill him, but we agreed that I should whip him. We went to the train at 9 o'clock and waited until the midnight train came in. When Hawley alighted from the train I went up to him and told him that I wished to see him. He went with me without protest, and in company with H. T. Smith, we walked to the lot where the whipping took place. When we reached the lot I took Hawley's coat and removed his trousers. I asked him if he did not find my home a happy one when he first came into it. He said it was. I asked him if he did not break it up and he answered that he did. I began to whip him with a whip that had been handed me at the depot by some one. After giving him a dozen or more lashes, I stopped and asked him what his plans were. He said that after a divorce had been secured by Mrs. Meadows they intended to marry and leave for foreign fields to do missionary work. The alimony obtained being used to pay attorney fees, the remainder to be given to my daughter, Mary. Mr. Hawley was never at any time unconscious. I whipped him three or four times and finally sent for a carriage and gave the man that brought it $10 to carry Hawley to Harris station."

On cross-examination Mr. Meadows admitted having told Fulton women that he did not believe that Mrs. Meadows had been guilty of improper conduct with anybody. He also admitted that he did not tell Hawley why he ordered him to leave his house, but that he remained on speaking terms with him until he left the city.

Meadows testimony was corroborated by Geo. Gourley, Dick Thomas and J. M. White, the other defendants, as to the story of the whipping and Hawley's alleged confession that he had broken up Meadows' home. J. N. Oliver and other witnesses, who were apparently friends of Meadows gave substantially the same testimony with the exception of Wayne Thomas, a young man, who said that H. T. Smith used many vile epithets and he heard Hawley deny any intimacy with Mrs. Meadows.

Those who testified to seeing the whipping of Hawley seemed to remember distinctly what Hawley said in regard to being in love with Meadows' wife and intending to marry her, all practically telling the same story along that line, but none could remember what any one else said or did during the time.

H. T. Smith, one of the defendants, testified to seeing Mrs. Meadows driving and walking with Hawley on the public thoroughfares. Boarders at the Meadows hotel testified to seeing them talking in the assembly hall of the hotel.

To show a conspiracy on part of the defendants, Meadows, H. T. Smith, Jim White, Dick Thomas and George Gourley, witnesses, were called and testified that they were all at the depot to meet the 9:40 train and were again at the depot to meet the midnight train with the exception of Gendry, who arrived on a train ten minutes ahead of the train Hawley arrived on. Several bystanders testified that either Smith, White or Gendry first approached Hawley and that Meadows came up later and identified him as the right man and that all went away together. White "packing" Hawley's grip. After the beating Hawley was placed in a carriage and Dick Thomas drove the carriage away while Jim White sat in the carriage beside Hawley.

the invitation of Mrs. Meadows or her husband.

Mrs. Mercer and other people, who live at the Meadows hotel, testified that Hawley's meetings and talks with Mrs. Meadows were not any more frequent than with any of the other women who live in the hotel.

Evidence was introduced to show that Meadows had invited Hawley

The physician, who dressed the wounds of Hawley, was called and testified as to their nature the evidence being that the cut places were severe and bled.

tractions husbands have not yet been able to clearly explain to them the real significance of the recent executive order.

Residents along Fifteenth street alley were surprised when that ancient mud hole was converted into a canal by the city; but the dumping of several loads of red clay, slightly interspersed with gravel, in the alley, with the timely assistance of the rains, has made the mud even deeper than before.

Possibly before any effort is made to reconstruct Broadway curbing, we shall learn that curbing is not necessary at all.

TO POINT A MORAL OR ADORN A TALE.

Now, here is the Hawley-Meadows case. It lacks some of the distasteful details of other recent scandals, and involves questions that might interest the talent of an Ibsen. Here is an elderly man with a pretty young wife, and a handsome, intellectual young preacher, all living in the same house. Church work attracts the young wife. She has a carriage and it falls to her lot to take the young preacher under her charge. Tongues wag, and the elderly husband grows jealous. That neither makes him more amiable, nor makes his vision clearer as to his wife's conduct. Maybe, the young minister proves quite as attractive to the wife, as the church.
Who knows? Anyway, the husband and wife grow apart. Is the preacher guilty? Some men snake their heads knowingly and remark: "He's a man," thereby indicating that they are judging him by themselves, but proving nothing. Is he blameless? That is another question. It's a problem play for the jury. As for us, we draw this lesson: A young and handsome, unmarried preacher should take up his residence in the family of an elderly couple, with sons about his own age.

CONFIDENCE OR COURAGE.

The Daily Trade Record, official organ of the textile industry, finds fault with use of the word "confidence" in constant appeals for the preservation of trade conditions, and wisely suggests that "courage" be substituted, as confidence embodies a host of ills, and presupposes perfection in existing conditions, or at least, the impossibility of improving them, and a degree of satisfaction with them.

Courage to eradicate existing evils, courage to go ahead, courage to face the future as well as the present; courage, says this textile journal, is all that is needed, and while use of confidence in this connection, is in general, more an unhappy choice of a word than an error of reasoning, the criticism is well taken, and we quote in part from the Daily Trade Record.

"Confidence," or "Courage," which do we want most today?—Here are some definitions of "confidence" and of "courage." Read them carefully.
Which frame of mind should we really cultivate today, confidence or courage?

"Confidence.—1. A trust or firm belief; an assurance of mind or firm belief in the integrity, stability, or veracity of another, or in the truth and reality of a fact. Mutual confidence is the basis of social happiness.
I place confidence in a statement, or in an official report.

"2. Trust; reliance; applied to one's own abilities or fortune; belief in one's own competency.

"3. That in which trust is placed;
ground of trust; he or that which supports.

"4. Safety, or assurance of safety;
security.

"5. Excessive boldness; assurance, proceeding from vanity or a false opinion of one's own abilities or excellencies."

"Courage.—Bravery; intrepidity; that quality of mind which enables men to encounter danger and difficulties with firmness, or without fear or depression of spirits; valor; boldness; resolution. It is a constituent part of fortitude; but fortitude implies patience to bear continued suffering.

"Perhaps, if we relapse into over confidence, we shall really need fortitude."

"Don't preach confidence, but rather commonsense, truth, courage and work—the present acute condition will pass quickly, but we must not smother its warning significance.
On every hand well-meaning 'optimists' are crying 'confidence,' and
'more confidence.'"

"What we really want is more fear and more truth. We are already suffering from overconfidence.

"What is the sense of everyone's blindly denying that too many have really been 'capitalizing hope,' that too many have done much business
'on a bluff,' that many conspicuous bluffs have been called; and that this and the consequent developments have killed confidence and buried it?"

"It is true that real prosperity underlies the scare. That is, the country is and has been for many years exceedingly productive. It is also true that much unsoundness and wastefulness has discounted that prosperity.

"Why at this time urge that we forget the rottenness and look only on the brightness? This is in line with Mr. Gompers's famous cure for bad times, with which the least humorous are now so amused.

"Confidence will not today cure inflation or renew excessive value
any more than it will mend a shattered arm.

"The danger signals were set over a year ago. They were ignored. Today, even while we are all still gazing, shocked and frightened, at the wrecks that have come of overriding the danger signals, those among us who urge greater discipline, caution and manly recognition of truths, are frowned upon as 'pessimists,' business disturbers, etc., etc. Many murmur: 'Won't you please go away and let me sleep.'"

"Confidence is often mere flattery, self or otherwise. Do we want flattery today or truth? Which is best for the future? The present will pass quickly, but, as we ourselves decide, it will leave its certain legacy of good or bad.

"Which is the wiser, blind confidence in conditions which have been shown to be largely wrong, or simple, true courage that the natural great prosperity of the country and the brains, energy and awakened effort of its people must win out?"

"Don't fool yourself and others with 'confidence.' Admit the truth to yourself. Gradually, calmly and inconspicuously reduce the results of overconfidence. Have courage and cheerfulness. Work hard to produce honestly and sell fairly only that—as far as you can judge carefully—for which there is a fair, sure price.

"In the concentration and satisfaction of such effort danger will pass in the night and fever be abated and the sweet sound blood of health be assured."

Whatever may be the medium of attraction in "soul affinity," the post office department declares it shall not be the mails.

do that,' says I. 'Where is he?' says
he. 'I don't know,' says I. 'Has 'e a room?' says he. 'He has,' says I. 'Where is it?' says he. 'What's that to you?' says I—"

"Yes, yes," I interrupted. "But where did he get the note?"

"I was just tellin' ye, sor," said the policeman amiably. "He shoved the note at me ag'in, an' says he, 'It's important,' says he. 'Go up there,' says
I. 'Last room, top floor, right-hand side.' Before I comes to the corner up here, he's after me ag'in. 'He's gone,' says he. 'Like enough,' says I. 'When he'll be back?' says he. 'When the cows come home, sonny,' says I. 'Then there'll be the devil to pay,' says he. I pricks up my ears at this.

"Why?" says I. "Oh, he'll be killed,"
says he, and I'll get the derdest lickin'," says he. "What's up?" says I.
"Makin' a grab for him. But he ducks an' blubbers. 'Gimme that letter,' says I, 'and you just kite back to the folks that sent you, and tell them what's the matter.' I'll give your note to your man if he comes while I'm on
the beat."

"Certainly not," I said with a shiver,
half at the grim suggestion of murder
and half at the chill of the fog
and the cutting wind that blew the cold vapor through to the skin.

"You've no overcoat," said Corson.
"We'll stop and get one. I'll have mine from the station."

The silence of the house of mystery was no less threatening now than on the night when Henry Wilton was walking through the halls on the way to his death. But the stout-hearted policeman by my side gave me confidence, and no sign showed the presence of an enemy as I secured Henry's heavy overcoat and the large revolver he had given me, and we took our way down the stairs.

the beat," says I. I knows too much to try to get anything more out of him.
I says to meself that Mr. Wilton ain't in the safest place in the world, and this kid's folks maybe means him well, and might know some other place to look for him. The kid jaws a bit, an' then does as I tells him, an'
cuts away. That's half an hour ago, an' here you are, an' here's your letter."

I hesitated for a little before saying anything. It was with quick suspicion that I wondered why Mother Borton had secured again that gloomy and deserted house for the interview she was planning.

"That was very kind of you. You didn't know what was in the letter then?"

"No, sor," replied Corson with a touch of wounded pride. "It's not me as would open another man's letter unless in the way of my duty."

"Do you know Mother Borton?" I continued.

"Know her? know her?" returned Corson in a tone scornful of doubt on such a point. "Do I know the slickest crook in San Francisco? Ah, it's many a story I could tell you, Mr. Wilton, of the way that old she-devil has slipped through our fingers when we thought our hands were on her throat.
And it's many of her brood we have put safe in San Quentin."

"Yes, I suppose so," said I dryly.
"But the woman has done me service
—saved my life, I may say—and I'm willing to forget the bad in her."

"That's not for me to say, sor; but there's the quare things happens, no doubt."

"This note," I continued, "is written over her name. I don't know whether it came from her or not; but if she sent it I must see her. It may be a case of life or death for me."

"An' if it didn't come from her?"
asked the policeman shrewdly.

"Then," said I grimly, "it's likely to be a case of death if I venture alone."

"I'll tell you what, Mr. Wilton," said Corson after a pause. "If you'll wait a bit, I'll go with you—that is, if there isn't somebody else you'd like better to have by your side to-night.
You don't look to have any of your friends about."

"Just the thing," I said heartily.
"There's no one I'd rather have. We'll go down as soon as we can get a bite to eat."

"I'll have to wait a bit, sor, till my relief comes. He'll be along soon. As for getting a bite, you can't do better than wait till you get to Mother Bor-ton's. It's a rough place, but it's got a name for good cooking."

I was bewildered.

"I guess there's not much to be got in the way of eating in the house.
There was nothing left in it yesterday morning but the rats."

"That's quare, now," he said, looking to see if there was a jest behind the words. "But 'twas all there when McPherson and I put a club to a drunk as was raising the Old Nick in the place and smashing the bottles, and six hours ago. When we took him away in the ixpress wagon the old woman was rowling out those long black curses in a way that would warm the heart of the foul fiend himself."

There was some fresh mystery about this. I held my tongue with the reflection that I had better let it straighten itself out than risk a stumble by asking about things I ought to know.

Corson's relief soon appeared. "It's a nasty night," he said, buttoning up his overcoat closely, as Corson gave him a brief report of the situation on
the beat.

"It's good for them as likes it dark,"
said Corson.

"It's just such a night as we had when Donaldson was murdered. Do you mind it?"

"Do I mind it? Am I likely to forget it? Well, a pleasant time to you, me boy. Come along, sor. We'd better be moving. You won't mind stepping up to the hall with me, will ye, while I report?"

"Certainly not," I said with a shiver,
half at the grim suggestion of murder
and half at the chill of the fog
and the cutting wind that blew the
cold vapor through to the skin.

"You've no overcoat," said Corson.

"Here we are," said Corson.

We pushed open the door and en-been taken by Dicky Nahl.

"A fine night, Mother Borton," said Corson cheerily, as he was the first to enter, and then added under his breath,—"for the devil's business."

Mother Borton stared at him with a black look and muttered a curse.

"Good evening," I hastened to say.

PEOPLE AND SOCIAL EVENTS

Mrs. Boyd Gives Handsome Card Party.

Exceptionally beautiful in all of its appointments was Mrs. Frank Boyd's card party at the Woman's club house on Thursday afternoon. It was the first private party in the new club house and the rooms appeared to delightful advantage. The entire upper floor, where the 25 tables were arranged, was a charming effect in yellow. Gorgeous Japanese chrysanthemums in this shade were used in profusion, artistically combined with yellow ribbons. These were grouped in the dining room, hall and committee room. The elaborate course luncheon served after the game was a prettily appointed affair and carried out the yellow motif in all of its details.

The game score in the dining room was kept by Mrs. Elizabeth Austin and Miss Myrtle Greer. In the hall and committee room Miss Frances Wallace and Miss Blanche Hills scored. The first prize, a pretty sofa pillow embroidered in yellow daisies, was won by Miss Anna Boswell in a cut with Mrs. William Marble, Miss Faith Langstaff captured the lone hand prize, a sofa pillow of yellow leather. Bunches of yellow and white chrysanthemums tied with yellow ribbons were presented to those who kept the game score.

Mrs. Boyd wore a charming reception toilette of blue silk and lace. The guest list was a large one, and included a number who came for luncheon besides those who played. They were: Mesdames George B. Ben Hur in Recital.

Mr. Montaville Flowers will give an interpretive recital here on Tuesday evening, November 26, under the auspices of the literary department of the Woman's club. He is an artist in his line and will give "Ben Hur" here.

General Lew Wallace has endorsed this as follows:
"It was a most excellent arrangement of Ben Hur, and Mr. Flowers displayed splendid judgment in his adaptation. It meets with my hearty approval. His educational power is admirably suited to the work. He presents the scenes and incidents of the plot in a charming manner, and his work in the presentation was by far the best I have ever heard. Mr. Flowers' work has my approval. It is the revival of the ancient eastern custom of story-telling. It is a recreation of a lost art. It is in safe hands with this young man, and will prove an attractive form of high-class platform work. I wish him great success."

NO EXTRA SESSION.
Texas Governor Refuses Request of Farmers' Union.

Austin, Tex., Nov. 20.—D. J. The particular object of the proposed legislation is to aid the cotton farmer, but it was intended that the law should apply to all classes of indebtedness.

The governor stated after the conference was over that he did not contemplate calling a special session of the legislature.

THREATENED WITH DEATH.
Chicago Mayor and Police Chief Receive Anonymous Notes.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—After the murder of Marino Sordina by alleged members of the Italian Black Hand society, it was discovered today that threats had been made to kill Mayor Busse, Chief of Police Shippy and 50 other prominent citizens.

"Over 50 citizens have informed me in the last three weeks that their lives had been threatened by some society," said the chief. "Threats have also been made against the mayor and my secretary informs me that several letters have been received against my life. I do not believe this is the work of any murder society. It seems to be the desire of some crank to work out his insane delusions. None of the threats to my knowledge has ever been carried out."

President's Action Was Timely and Situation.

CONDITIONS ARE EXCELLENT.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20.—President Roosevelt has broken the back of the money stringency, and fear of an actual panic has now disappeared.

This is the unqualified opinion of government officials and financiers here, and it has been reinforced by telegrams from all over the country declaring that the vigorous measures taken, coupled with the letter of the president to the secretary of the treasury, will, within a brief time, provide not only ample money with which to conduct the business of the country but will result in the prompt restoration of public confidence.

The situation undoubtedly was a critical one, and the near taken to correct it were extraordinary. A man less brave than the president and a secretary of the treasury less resourceful than Mr. Cortelyou might have hesitated to take such action.

Fortunately for the country the sale of bonds and the issue of certificates of indebtedness will cause a flood of actual currency, and a large percentage of it will go to the south, southwest and west, where the demand for currency has been most insistent.

Good Effect Is Immediate.

terior began to loosen their purse strings, and before a single bond or certificate is on the market the premium on money is likely to disappear.

The more the extraordinary plan adopted yesterday is studied, with its almost open defiance of the existing law, the more beneficial does it appear. Furthermore, the secretary of the treasury actually extended its scope today by holding that the certificates of indebtedness, being interest-bearing obligations on the government, are United States bonds within the meaning of the statute and can be used as security for national bank circulation.

This issue of certificates, therefore, with $50,000,000 of Panama bonds renders a possible maximum issue of national bank notes of $150,000,000, and a probable issue of nearly two-thirds of that sum. This immense flood of money, coupled with the importations of gold and the increase of about $25,000,000 in national bank circulation within the last month, form the most notable additions to the supply of money ever made in the financial history of the United States.

Our gold imports have been phenomenal. Under ordinary circumstances they would alone have been sufficient to put a stop to any possible money stringency. On top of that the treasury has expanded its deposits in national banks by about $60,000,000.

Then the controller of the currency suggested the substitution of savings bank securities for government bonds to back up federal deposits, permitting the use of bonds to secure more circulation. This has added $25,000,000 to the bank note circulation of the country.

These Panama bonds are free from taxation by federal, state, or municipal authority. They have behind them the credit of the United States, backed, as it is, by an unlimited taxing power.

The current 2 per cent bonds now command a premium of nearly $7 on every $100. The new Panama bonds bear the same rate of interest, and may possibly run six years longer than the current issue, so that they ought to be more desirable. Bankers say, however, that any bid above par ought to be satisfactory to the government.

The interesting thing about the Panama canal bonds, of course, is that they will be mainly used as a basis for circulation. National banks which desire to bid for these bonds can practically buy them with securities without putting up much, if any, cash. That is to say, their bids will be accepted and the money they might have to pay for the bonds will immediately be redeposited with the banks, with savings bank securities of the approved type behind them.

The government bonds the banks thus secure are immediately available for new circulation, provided the banks have not exceeded their maximum allowance, which is equal to the capital stock.

People who have become afraid of banks and have hoarded their money in safety deposit vaults or in private hiding places will naturally look to the government bonds as a desirable investment. The result of this will be to break up these private hoards and turn the money first into the treasury and then back into the banks, provided the individuals' bids are high enough to secure the bonds.

HAVEN OF FALSE INVALIDS CLOSED BY ITS FOUNDER.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 20.—Discouraged and disgusted by the ingratitude of his beneficiaries, N. O. Nelson, a St. Louis millionaire philanthropist, has decided to close his "health camp" for consumptives in the Coachella valley.

During the period that the camp has been in existence it has given shelter to nearly 500 patients.

Mr. Nelson became convinced that the patients, by hook or crook, passed the word along that he was "easy" and his health camp as a result has been overburdened with "professional invalids."

Hereafter Mr. Nelson's dollars will go into settlement work or some other line of philanthropy where he will receive an occasional word of appreciation and not feel that he has been victimized.

The Splendid New
Serial Story

Satan Sanderson

Satan Sanderson is the true embodiment of the requisites that make a really great story. It gives the reader a look into a little world of action where all of the emotions that make of our life—and lives—are set in swift, exciting play—one against the other. Incident follows incident with quick succession, and a vivid panorama of intrigue, mystery, love and strange adventure kindles the interest to the fusing point.

Written in a charming style, brilliant in coloring, picturesque in background, faithful in characterization and intensely dramatic, with stirring climax, Satan Sanderson is by all odds the best story of the year.

TAFT BOOM

GIVEN IMPETUS AT GARFIELD CLUB DINNER LAST NIGHT.

Attorney General Wade Ellis, of Ohio, in Speech Lauds Taft as Roosevelt's Successor.

Warren, O., Nov. 20.—The presidential boom for Secretary Taft was given impetus at the annual dinner of the Garfield club here last night. The boom was accelerated in a speech by Attorney General Ellis, of Ohio. The Garfield club is one of the notable political organizations of the state. Two presidents have been members. Attorney General Ellis recounted the illustrious deeds of his party and then discussed the present financial situation.

"Near before has there been such universal insistence upon honesty in public office," he said, "conscience and purity in administration of government; equality and fair dealing among men. The great leader in this movement, recognized and acclaimed by all, is the president of the United States."

"Wall street and the whole fraternity of gamblers and promoters are against the president. Just now we are witnessing a remarkable exhibition of that enmity. The present financial flurry is a machine-made panic. The net results thus far are, first, destruction of the chief competitor of the Standard Oil's copper interests; second, the destruction of the chief competitor of the United States Steel corporation. They will emerge from the late business unpleasantness richer than ever before and with an assured mastery of the chief natural wealth of the country—coal, iron, copper and steel. They were able to do it because they already had chief mastery of gold."

"The people will not be fooled. The panic will be a fizzle and the protection of honest investors and righteous business enterprises shall be secure. Roosevelt policies will be continued and when we come to the choice of a man who shall execute the public will as a successor to him, who has been the greatest opponent of real Republicanism since the birth of the party, we will choose another Ohioan, William H. Taft."

MILK DEALERS' TRUST.
Will Be Subject of Investigation by State's Attorney in Chicago.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—State's Attorney Healey announced today that he proposed to investigate the reports of a combination among the milk dealers for the purpose of raising prices.

The price of milk in this city recently has been raised by the large dealers to eight cents, and there has been much complaint because of their action. The officers of the milk companies deny there is a combination, and they raised the price without consulting anybody.

The state's attorney says his investigation will commence immediately.

SAYS BIBLE SHOULD NOT BE TAUGHT IN SCHOOLS.

St. Louis, Nov. 20.—Rev. D. H. S. Bradley, pastor of the St. John's Southern Methodist church, in a debate with Rev. Dr. W. F. Andrews, of Centenary church, before the Southern Methodist ministers' meeting yesterday morning, declared that the Bible should not be taught in the public schools. Dr. Bradley said to introduce the Bible into the public schools would be construed by many as an attempt to force the Christian religion upon the pupils and would entail harmful influences rather than foster good ones.

He was ready to concede, with Dr. Andrews, that religious instruction should be given during the formative period of youth, but feared that the public school, where children of believers and non-believers assemble, is not the place to give it. He pointed out, too, the constitutional prohibition with reference to the expenditure of public money for the purpose of fostering churches and religion.

Dr. Andrews held that the Bible could be introduced into the public schools as supplementary reading and placed on a par with standard works, to stand or fall on its merit. He said no attempt should be made to have children of non-believers read it. He declared that the supreme court of the United States had twice held this nation to be a Christian one, hence the teaching of the Christian religion in the schools is not a violation of the constitutional provision. About thirty preachers heard the discussion.

The primer was adopted and effort was made by the national union to have it introduced into all of the Catholic schools of the country. DEADLOCK

CREATED IN ILLINOIS CONFERENCE COMMITTEE.

Primary Bill Provisions Cause of Inability to Get Together—Meet Nov. 25.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 20.—The joint conference committee on the primary election bill is in a deadlock. It is unable to reach an agreement as to the manner of nominating presidential electors and the selection of delegates to the national conventions—whether by direct primary vote, as provided by the Oglesby bill, or by conventions, as provided by the senate amendment. The committee has taken a recess until November 25, by which time it is probable that some agreement will have been reached.

There is really no dispute about the presidential electors; everybody apparently agrees that they ought to be named by convention; but opposition to striking national convention delegates from the bill, thus leaving their selections to conventions, has developed and it may be ascribed to various motives. Some of the members undoubtedly believe that the primary election ought to include national delegates; others are suspected of opposing the senate amendment on this point because they do not want a primary law of any kind; while still others have conceived the idea that the amendment is to have an important bearing on a supposed contest between President Roosevelt and Speaker Cannon for the Illinois delegation to next year's national convention.

The truth is that so far as Illinois is concerned there will be no contest between Roosevelt and Cannon. "Uncle Joe" has said repeatedly, and his friends have reiterated the statement, that if the president is to stand for renomination he will be for him; and it is well understood, among those in a position to know, that the Cannon candidacy for the presidency is based wholly on the assumption that Roosevelt will adhere firmly to his original declaration that he will not accept another nomination.

A Hard Debt to Pay.

"I owe a debt of gratitude that can never be paid off," writes G. S. Clark, of Westfield, Iowa, "for my rescue from death, by Dr. King's New Discovery. The ominous dry, hacking cough quit before the first bottle was used, and two more bottles made a complete cure." Nothing has ever equaled New Discovery for coughs, colds and all throat and lung complaints. Guaranteed by all druggists. 50c and $1. Trial bottle free.

SEES A VICTORY.

James Ewing Davis Confident He Will Be Elected.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 20.—With practically a solid delegation of lodges from Cook county and assurances from many others, James Ewing of lines in the fight for the grand grand ward of the Illinois Odd Fellows, is confident he will defeat E. R. Sawyer, of Springfield. The election will be held on Wednesday. The arrival of Miss Lola Rickard, of Decatur, resulted in a sharp drawing of lines in the fight for the grand secretaryship of the state assembly of Rebekahs.

Mrs. Mary P. Miller, the present secretary, is a candidate for re-election. Stories were circulated today attacking the financial competency of the treasurer, Mrs. Carrie E. Skaggs, of Harrisburg. She issued a statement today, denying this charge.

Tomorrow being the fifteenth day of the fifth moon, the Cantonese are in the habit of having sing-song parties in open spaces, or on the roof, for the purpose of worshipping the moon. The police department, being afraid that disorder might arise from these people, has issued a notification that such noisy parties at night should be prohibited.—South China Post.

PURE FOOD

ORDER ISSUED BY ILLINOIS STATE COMMISSION.

Circular Sent Out Concerning Articles on Sale, but Not Properly Labeled.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 20.—The pure food commission has issued the following "circular No. 4:"

It has come to the notice of this department that large quantities of foods are being placed on sale in this state which are not labeled with the true name of the manufacturer, jobber or dealer selling same. Under section 9 of the law defining misbranding, paragraph 4 reads as follows: "That for the purpose of this act an article shall be deemed misbranded—if it be a manufactured article of food or food sold in package form, and is not distinctly labeled, marked or branded with the true name of the manufacturer and place of manufacture or the name and address of the packer or dealer who sells the same."

That there may be no misunderstanding as to what is included in the term "food," we quote section 7 of the law which defines food as follows:

"The term 'food' as used herein, shall include all articles used for food, drink, confectionery or condiment by man or other animals, whether simple, mixed or compound, and any substance used as a constituent in the manufacture thereof." There is no good reason why this law should not be fully complied with and this circular is issued as a special warning to manufacturers, packers, jobbers and retail dealers in all foods, confectionery and liquors, etc., not to ship or sell goods in this state which are not labeled as above required and that prosecution must and will follow failure on their part to comply with the provisions of the law.

ALFRED H. JONES, State Food Commissioner.

Ask Pardon for Yontsey. Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 20.—Before his retirement from the office of chief executive of the state of Kentucky, Gov. J. C. W. Yontsey, provided the petition now ready for circulation secures the signatures of any citizens of this community.

FOR REST AND RECREATION.

Politics Has Nothing to Do With Wilson's Visit.

Washington, Nov. 20.—Gov. and Mrs. Wilson arrived in Washington at 10 o'clock this morning and drove at once to the residence of Justice Harlan. To the newspaper men Mr. Wilson said:

"I have come to Washington for a period of rest and recreation, and for a visit with my old friend, Justice Harlan, who has always been like a father to me. I expect to spend a good deal of my time playing golf with him, and while he bested me the last time I played with him, I feel confident he can't do it again. I will be here ten days unless called home sooner. I have always made it a practice to call on the president when in Washington, and I shall do so this time. I have not come here either on state matters or on politics, but merely to visit friends who have been perfectly lovely to me, and to rest."

WILL BE TRIED IN TWO WEEKS.

Raymond Hitchcock Will Have an Early Hearing.

New York, Nov. 20.—The trial of Raymond Hitchcock, the comedian, on six indictments growing out of charges preferred against him of assault on several young girls, possibly will begin within two weeks. This announcement was made today, following an agreement between the district attorney's office and the defendant's counsel, as a result of which Hitchcock's counsel withdrew a motion made several days ago that he be permitted to inspect the minutes of the grand jury which reported the indictments. In withdrawing the motion, the attorney said it was done in the interest of an early trial for the actor.

$1,000 TAX ON SALOONS VALID.

Says the Supreme Court of the State of Ohio.

Columbus, O., Nov. 20.—The state supreme court today held the Alken law, imposing a tax of $1,000 on saloons in the state, valid. The decision was given in the case of Bernard Wrede, a Cincinnati saloonkeeper, against C. C. Richardson, charged with the collection of the saloon tax. All the acts of the last session of the legislature whose validity were questioned by the illness of Governor Pattison, are incidentally upheld by the decision.

500 PEOPLE

GREETED FATHER JANSEN ON OCCASION OF HIS JUBILEE.

Handsome Presents Given Him by Members of Congregation—Elegant Reception.

More than 500 people greeted the Rev. Father Jansen, pastor of St. Francis de Sales church, yesterday on the occasion of the twenty-fifth anniversary of his pastorate here. Yesterday afternoon he received the Sisters and pupils of St. Mary's Academy in the Knights of Columbus hall, and last night members of the congregation and invited friends were received. The hall was beautifully decorated in southern style, palms and chrysanthemums and a silver arch with the words "silver jubilee" strung between the pillars, was behind Father Jansen, who stood at the middle of the line. Music was played by Deat's orchestra and elegant refreshments were served.

The appointments and execution of details of the function were marked with accuracy and perfection, and in every way the crowning social event of the jubilee was a great success.

A guest book, in silver and white, containing pictures of historical interest in connection with the church, addresses from the congregation and various societies, and the names of all the guests at the reception, who signed as they entered, was presented to Father Jansen. This was a complete surprise to him. The book was hand-made of white leather, trimmed in silver.

In an eloquent speech Mr. J. T. Donovan, on behalf of the congregation, presented to Father Jansen a handsome Ford runabout. Father Jansen's reply indicated how touched he was with the regard shown him by his people.

The Eternal Feminine.
Sing a song of spinsters!
My latchkey and my flat!
No brutal man to say to me;
"What have you done with that Last dollar I bestowed on you
A month or so ago?"
I love my independence; still,
When burns the firelight low,
I feel quite lonesome, and so small—
Maybe I'll marry after all!

Sing a song of wedded wives!
Three meals to plan per day,
A cook to keep and pacify,
A husband to obey.
He's very dear, of course, but when Both night and day he's buried
Up to his eyes in Wall street stocks,
It's stupid to be married!
And there are moments when I'd fain
Become a spinster once again!

VAST AMOUNT OF PROPERTY ESCAPES TAX ASSESSOR

The general property tax was put into effect in Kentucky partly because it was believed that under the old system a great deal of property in the shape of money, bonds, stocks, mortgages, lien notes and other evidences of credit, escaped taxation. It was hoped that by a rigid system of assessment and inspection a greater amount of this class of property could be brought to light, greatly increasing the revenues of the state.

The system has succeeded in bringing some of this kind of property to light, but there is still an enormous amount of it that escapes taxation.

The general property tax, it should be remembered, decrees that the same tax must fall on all classes of property. Let us suppose a man, living in almost any town in the state, is the owner of a land note for $1,000, on which 6 per cent interest is paid him. In some of the towns in the state his combined town, county and state tax would be over $3; in most of them it would be between $2.50 and $3. Manifestly, a man will be very unwilling to give in for taxation a piece of property that yields him 6 per cent only, when by so reporting it he condemns himself to having to give up nearly half the income from that property to the tax collector.

Perjury or Confiscation.

But the greater part of property of this class does not pay as much as 6 per cent. A vast amount of this property held in the state, perhaps as much as half of it, is property held in trust for the benefit of widows and children who are not able to earn money themselves, but depend for their support upon the income from property that has been left them by the husband and father and which will be largely invested in notes, stocks, bonds and this general class of property. In normal times much of this class of investment will not pay over 4 per cent, the income running from 4 to 5 1/2 per cent. If, now, the tax rate absorbs from 2 1/2 to 3 per cent, it will be readily seen that very little is left for the support of these helpless people.

The temptation to conceal property when the tax on it will absorb from one-half to three-fourths of the income it yields is stronger than the normal man can resist, and as a rule he does not try to resist it in any state where this system of the general property tax prevails, and that is why the tax authorities of the states are coming as generally to denounce it. In Kentucky the evasions of the tax on this class of property are enormous. In September, 1905, only $11,480,000 of bonds, only $1,428,195 of stock in corporations and only $15,046,837 of bank deposits was given in for taxation, although the banks and trust companies of the state contained in that year $25,500,000 of deposits. At the same time the assessors were able to find only $5,407,512 of money outside the banks, or a total of about $18,500,000 of money. That there should have been only about $25,000,000 of deposits in the banks of the entire state of Kentucky is the most damning proof of the supreme economic folly of our system.

Effect on Value of Real Estate.

We may mark the secondary effect of this policy in the valuation of real estate. It takes capital and accompanying prosperity to enhance real estate values. In 1880 the assessed real estate valuation was $265,685,908, or $160 per capita. In 1890, before our new constitution with the present tax system went into effect, the valuation increased to $293 per capita. In 1900, after eight years of the new tax system, it had increased to $209—an increase of only $6 per capita. The total assessed wealth of the state in 1880 was $212.63 per capita. In 1890, just before the new constitution, it had increased to $275.80. From 1890 to 1906, with 14 years under the new tax system, it increased only to $293 per capita—an increase of less than $18 per capita in 16 years.

Under our old constitution, with all its imperfections, there was some latitude given to localities in the encouragement of industries. The new constitution adopted in 1891 abolished most of this, but did allow municipalities to give five years' exemption to new manufacturing concerns. The act putting this clause of the constitution into effect was not passed until 1898. The decade, then, from 1880 to 1890 illustrates the progress possible under the old liberal system; the decade from 1890 to 1900 illustrates the result of the narrow policy of the new constitution before partial exemption became effective, and the years since 1900 well show the result of the liberal policy of encouragement. Mark then the result: From 1880 to 1890, under a policy of encouragement, the capital employed in manufacturing in Kentucky increased 74.2 per cent. From 1890 to 1900, with all encouragement withdrawn and heavy taxes imposed, the capital invested in manufactures increased only 30.4 per cent. About 1900 the five-years' exemptions had been granted in many cities and towns, and from 1900 to 1905 the capital invested in manufactures in Kentucky increased 67.4 per cent.

MISS LULA CLARK

MEMBER OF OLD FAMILY DIES SUDDENLY AT HOME.

Daughter of Late Isaac Clark, and Native of Christian County—Funeral Thursday.

The announcement of the sudden death of Miss Lula Clark at the family home, 411 North Seventh street, last evening about 9:30 o'clock, came with a great shock to the many friends she had throughout the city. She had just returned home, having been down in the city, and died from apoplexy a few minutes after she was stricken and before Dr. J. G. Brooks, a near neighbor, could reach the house.

Miss Clark was the daughter of the late Isaac and Julianna Bradshaw Clark and was born in Christian county, but has made Paducah her home for years. She was a noble christian woman who did much charity work in a quiet, unassuming way, and had been for years an invalid. She was a devoted member of the First Presbyterian church. Miss Clark is survived by two sisters Mrs. Reuben Rowland and Miss Orrie Clark. Her family is identified with much of Paducah's growth and progress and is an old and prominent one. She possessed a large circle of friends and a number of relatives here.

The funeral will be held Thursday morning at 10 o'clock from the family residence. The service will be conducted by the Rev. W. E. Cave and the burial will be at Oak Grove cemetery.
